Overview

Allan has devoted his distinguished career to becoming one of the most skilled civil litigators in New England, focusing his practice particularly in the areas of insurance and reinsurance. Allan is a nationally recognized expert in insurance, litigating an extensive number of insurance and reinsurance disputes across the country, and regularly serving as an arbitrator of insurance disputes. The matters in which he has played a prominent role have often involved hundreds of millions of dollars. He also provides extensive advice to insurers in the drafting of policy language and coordinating large insurance and reinsurance programs.

Like many of the attorneys at Peabody & Arnold, Allan has extensive civil trial experience in state and federal courts across a wide range of areas, including personal injury, professional liability, business disputes and environmental law.

Allan has appeared in federal courts in California, Minnesota, New York and Rhode Island. In addition, he has appeared before state courts in California, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Texas, Washington and West Virginia.
