Overview

Phil's practice spans more than 60 years. With a focus on civil litigation and appeals, he has tried numerous complex cases before judges, juries, administrative boards, arbitrators, and appeals courts. His broad experience includes:

- Antitrust – He has tried extended anti-trust cases involving the movie, milk and cranberry industries and claims in defense contracts of anti-trust violations.
- Land use – He has litigated all aspects of land use disputes including zoning, subdivision control, environment and wetlands.
- Land valuation – Eminent Domain cases involved movie theaters, road layouts, parking garages, factories. He has represented both public agencies and private landowners. He has also tried tax abatement appeals before the Appellate Tax Board for both municipalities and owners. In 1998, he represented Boston Wharf Company in an eminent domain action arising from the Central Artery project and obtained one of the largest land damage settlements in the history of the Commonwealth.
- Construction and Engineering – Over the years, he has represented in litigation many major contractors in the Boston area as well as contractors in other parts of the United States. He has tried major construction cases including the engineering for and construction of the Worcester Civic Center, now called the DCU Center.
- Fidelity and Surety – He has represented major fidelity and surety companies in claims on fidelity and payment and performance bonds. He has tried numerous fidelity and surety cases.
- Reinsurance – He has done litigation in the reinsurance field and is familiar with reinsurance treaties. He litigated a major reinsurance matter in London.
- Trade Secrets – He has tried trade secret cases, primarily in the field of defense contracting.
- Municipal Law – He has served for litigation as special city solicitor of the cities of Salem and Worcester and as special town counsel of the towns of Abington, Amesbury, Andover, Concord, Dudley, Brookline, Groton, Hadley, Hanover, Ipswich, Kingston, Mansfield, Marshfield, Maynard,
