Specialized Care for Professional Liability Claims

We are professionals just like you, so we understand the challenges of practicing in a fast-paced environment and meeting client expectations. Occasionally, you may be unable to meet those demands, and a client will bring a claim or lawsuit against you, or a professional licensing agency will bring disciplinary charges. Whether or not the claim or charge has merit, its effects can be devastating – financially, professionally, and personally.

Our Professional Liability Group appreciates the sensitivity of these issues and the consequences they can have on your practice. You want the most experienced counsel available on your side who can resolve these matters as quickly and confidentially as possible through creative settlement or trial, when necessary. We have the experience to know which cases can be settled at an early stage, and the skill and imagination to reach the appropriate settlement. We also have the experience to know which cases need to be aggressively defended, and in those cases, we are prepared to represent you vigorously through trials and appeals.

We represent a wide range of non-health related professionals, including:
